Ike Has Budget Worries

Jake it from Here

NOTES FROM A CITY EDITOR'S DAYBOOK — Announcement that Dixon high school students have,, with with their own initiative, set up youth center plans, should be greeted with enthusiasm by local mothers and fathers.

A lot of adults have scratched their heads for a solution to the problem since Father Jones closed the St. Luke's center. There was a clamor then for a substitute center where the high schoolers could gather during certain evening hours. Now the kids themselves have apparently solved it.

* * *

From what we've heard of the initial plans, the youth group has made strides to head off the usual criticism. First off, they're seeking a three-man adult supervisory board. One will be a clergyman, another a businessman and the third a teacher.

In the first draft of their constitution and by-laws, they've also set forth provisions for membership, that to be limited to high school students only. Visitors will be allowed only through a "guest" arrangement.

Of particular significance is the fact that there will be a dues arrangement, indicating that the center will not be required to depend solely on adult contributions. That move is in itself admirable because it's probably a proved fact that contributing members are less liable to begin breaking up the furniture.

* * *

Of course, particular mention should go to John Roe, who gladly contributed the youth center space rent-free. The members will be required only to pay for the lights and heat. This they should manage to do quite readily.

As a personal note, we're happy to note this outburst of youthful energy. This newspaper will follow with great interest the subsequent activities of this now-inspired group with the hope that they may be the forerunner of something even more promising and worthwhile for our city's youth.

The local fire department, criticized from one source for not responding to a call to pump out a basement during a heavy rain storm on Feb. 5, now is called upon to answer why it was able to make a run to fill the water tank of a Chicago NorthWestern diesel locomotive on Feb. 16.

The fire department placed out of its jurisdiction, a call to the basement home of R. L. Feldkirchner in Shore Acres during the rainstorm of Feb. 5, and made a considerable case for itself in stating that use of fire-fighting equipment for that purpose would place in jeopardy other homes in Dixon. That was readily understandable, although the Feldkirchner family was in desperate straits since much of its furniture was afloat in the basement.

Feldkirchner himself admitted that he was at some fault in the Feb. 5 instance because of a delay in backfilling his basement walls. He expressed himself as just a desperate man seeking relief from any source at all when he saw the water ruining his furniture. When firemen failed to respond, his reaction was bitter.

Now a reader writes:

"Remembering a story of some days ago of a distress call from a Dixon resident and his family about their home being flooded and their belongings destroyed by water, it seems to me that the fire department and their chief have just turned about face in their explanation of not answering a distress call. Seems they didn't want to leave our homes unprotected.

"Now they answer a call, for all things, to fill a locomotive!

"Since when does the fire department start pumping water for the NorthWestern railroad? How many men and how much equipment and how much time did it take to fill this locomotive? How about an explanation of this from the chief? In your humble opinion was there any great difference in the two distress calls? Would like to hear the chief's version of these two circumstances."

Robert Preston, Lee county coroner, today announced that he had appointed Robert Torman, Pawpaw, as deputy coroner.

Torman succeeds the late Dr. A. F. Moore, Dixon.

Locate School Children Lost in Blizzard

Search Party Finds Them Safe, Well

Eastern Rockies Center of Winds And Heavy Snows

DENVER—(AP) — A radio report to the Sterling, Colo., police station early this morning said that nine school children missing since their bus stalled in snow-locked Northern Colorado Thursday had been found safe at a farm house.

Sheriff E. M. Brown who led a search party into the area radioed that the children and the bus driver were eating bacon and eggs at the Merle Carey farm, 12 miles northwest of Sterling, when found. They had spent the night at the farm.

It was not immediately known how far the farm house is from where the bus stalled. Other details were lacking. There are few telephones in the area.

Lost Thursday

The bus had last been heard from at 3 p.m. Thursday when it made one of its stops between Sterling and the Mount Hope area, a sparsely populated section of small farms.

Deaths of three persons were blamed on the storm, which pushed its way into the area Wednesday with winds that reached 65 miles an hour.

The U. S. Weather Bureau here said there had been greater snow depths but not as much sustained wind with a snow storm in the region since the big one in 1949, which took 17 lives in five days.

Whistling along the eastern slope of the Rockies, this storm shucked off 12 inches of new snow at Cheyenne and nine inches at Denver.

13 Inches of Snow

Wheatland, in the central part of Wyoming, got 13 inches of new snow which, added to some already on the ground, made a total of 19 inches. Most snow depths in the area were two to six inches.

Auto and air traffic was slowed to a crawl, if not halted; power and telephone lines were blocked out; and many rural and small community schools were closed.

Although temperatures were below freezing, they were not subzero nor what the Weather Bureau would term "extreme."

Storm warnings went out to Minnesota and northern sections of Wisconsin and Michigan Thursday night as they appeared in the path of the storm, which erupted from the meeting of Canadian and Pacific fronts. Earlier, 40-mile-an-hour winds had blasted both Southern California and the Texas Panhandle.

Winds, Snow

High wind whipped snow throughout Western and Central Nebraska late Thursday night and Chadron, in the northwest corner of the state, reported seven inches of new snow. Wind there were clocked at 50 miles per hour, with gusts up to 60, and temperatures about 10 above.

Railroad employes in Western Nebraska told of snow drifts up to six feet but said snow plows were idle because drivers couldn't see where they were going.

TV Set Given Youth Center; Drapes, Also!

Dixon's new youth center plans got rolling today with the revelation that the center has been given a television set, drapes for the windows, and several mirrors.

Joe Magdison, who operates the Dixon Appliance Co., told youth center sponsors that he would contribute a 17-inch Capehart TV set and would install the set free of charge.

This offer was quickly followed by another from Eichler Brothers who volunteered drapes for nine windows in the center to be located in the Amvet hall, above the Spiegel store.

Yesterday, a youth committee had expressed a need for folding chairs, coke bar stools, card tables, checkers and checkerboards, mirrors, chairs, a cash register and curtains.

Those having that type of equipment to contribute may call 2-6871 or 2-7031 - anytime during the day.

Brother Hunted For Strangling Younger Sister

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Police combed a densely wooded area 40 miles north of this Western Pennsylvania city today in search of a 24-year-old combat veteran wanted for questioning in the death of his younger sister.

June Christoff, 21, a senior at Pennsylvania State College, was found strangled Tuesday night in the bedroom of their home at Frugality, a small mining community. Her brother, Jean, left on a hunting trip shortly before the body was discovered.

Paul Christoff, their father, told police his son suffered a nervous breakdown in 1949 and was forced to leave school in his junior year at Carnegie Institute of Technology.

Highway Shut By Four-Foot Flood at Galena

GALENA — A night-long rain in the Galena area has overflowed the Galena river at the south edge of the city and halted traffic on Rt. 20 there, it was reported today by district state police.

Police said an estimated 4 feet of water covered the highway at a point where the pavement dips near the bridge.

About another foot of water is to cover the flooded area by the time the flood crest is reached about 3:30 p. m. today.

Postoffice to Close Monday

The Dixon postoffice will be closed Monday, Washington's birthday, it was announced today by Rae Arnould, postmaster. No city or rural deliveries will be made.

Water. Again Ravages Feldkirchner Home

—Telegraph Photo

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Feldkirchner are shown here salvaging furniture from their water-ravaged basement home at 1005 Ann st., Shore Acres, this morning after a rainstorm flooded the basement for the second time in two weeks. Feldkirchner said that his loss in the Feb. 5 flood would exceed $1,000. Last night's deluge completed the destruction. The owner criticized firemen for not responding to a distress call on Feb. 5. Although he was fortified with a pump for any future floods, he said today that faulty street drainage caused a cesspool to fill and back into his cellar last night and that he didn't reach the home in time to man his pump. The Feldkirchners have been living elsewhere since the first flood dumped three feet of water into the basement.

Prescott Will Head County Cancer Drive

Lyle M. Prescott, Dixon businessman, has been appointed by the executive committee of Lee county chapter of American Cancer Society to the chairmanship of the 1953 cancer crusade.

Plans for the crusade are still in process of completion. Since April has been designated by Congress as cancer control month, solicitation of funds will start on Monday, April 13 and will continue throughout the week on a county-wide basis. Many donations have already been made by both organizations and individuals. An all-out effort will be made to give everyone a chance to contribute to this worthwhile cause during the April campaign.

Prescott, in accepting this office, succeeds George W. Lindquist, last year's successful campaign chairman.

New Ambassador To Britain Pays Visit to Queen

LONDON—(AP)—Winthrop Aldrich, new U. S. ambassador to London, made a ceremonial call at Buckingham Palace today to present his credentials to Queen Elizabeth II.

The Queen also received Mrs. Aldrich in the audience room overlooking the palace grounds.

Observing tradition, the ambassador rode to the palace in a landau drawn by spirited horses and escorted by police. Three landaus, their crimson and gold trappings sparkling in bright sunshine, were needed to accommodate Mr. and Mrs. Aldrich and high officials of the American embassy.

Aldrich chose not to wear the ceremonial knee britches in which some ambassadors appear for presentation ceremonies. He wore a morning suit. Americans and diplomatic representatives of most republics have discarded the "court dress" which has been seen on few occasions recently.

'Voice' Employe Charges Anti-Red Script Altered

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A New York employe of the "Voice of America" today charged three of his fellow workers watered down anti-Communist references in scripts prepared for overseas broadcasting.

The employe, Virgil H. Fulling, told a Senate investigations subcommittee he had encountered several such instances and had come to feel he was fighting "sinister influences."

Names Three

Asked by Chairman McCarthy (R-Wis) to name those he considered responsible "for this softening down or catering to the Communist," Fulling called off the names of Harold Berman, Donald Taylor and Robert Goldman.

Fulling identified himself as chief of the Latin-American news service of the "Voice."

He presented to the subcommittee documents which he said covered a specific instance of watering down last Jan. 21, the day after President Eisenhower's inauguration.

On that day, Fulling related, he prepared a script which told of pro-American demonstrations by "anti-Communist" elements in Guatemala.

The demonstrations were a spontaneous showing of affection of the American people and gratification over Eisenhower's inauguration, Fulling said.

Copy Edited

However, he said that the description, "anti-Communist," was twice pencilled out of his copy on the central news desk of the "Voice" in New York.

Fulling said the editing was done by Goldman, an employe on the desk, at the direction of Taylor, a supervisor there.

The witness said he protested to Taylor without avail and that they took the issue to Berman, assistant chief of the news branch. Berman upheld Taylor, Fulling said.

Rule Baseball Not Subject to Anti-Trust Act

CINCINNATI (AP) — The U. S. Court of Appeals today held that baseball is a sport and therefore not subject to any court action under the Sherman Anti-Trust Law.

A similar ruling was made by U. S. Court of Appeals in Los Angeles in 1951.

The opinion, written by Judge Thomas F. McAllister, upheld an opinion written almost 30 years ago by Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes. The case reached the appellate court here in suits brought by Jack Corbett and Walter J. Kowalski. Both challenged the validity of the baseball player reserve clause.

The reserve clause binds a player to the club holding his contract and does not permit him to negotiate with others for his services.

St. Louis Cards Sold To Brewery

Anheuser-Busch Pays $3,750,000 For Famed Redbirds

ST. LOUIS—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals were sold today for $3,750,000 to Anheuser-Busch, Inc., of St. Louis, one of the nation's largest breweries.

The sale was announced jointly by the brewery and Fred M. Saigh, who decided to take himself out of baseball after getting a 16-month prison sentence for income tax evasion.

In addition to the National League franchise, the Cardinals own nine minor league clubs and have working agreements with six others.

August A. Busch, jr., president of the brewery, becomes president of the Cardinals and William Walsingham jr., will remain vice president and be operating head of the baseball organization.

While no sale price was announced, the Post-Dispatch said it learned that the brewery gave that amount.

Busch said he anticipated no change in the administration of the baseball orgnization. He referred to Manager Eddie Stanky as "one of the greatest managers in baseball today."

"We are fortunate in having him," he said.

Busch said the transaction had been approved by Baseball Commissioner Ford C. Frick and Warten Giles, National League president.

Busch expressed the hope the St. Louis Browns of the American League would remain here.

Grand Opening For Whitcomb's Jewelry Store

Whitcomb's jewelry store, which was recently moved to a new location at 103 S. Galena av., today announced its grand opening to be held Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Whitcomb are the operators of the establishment they founded here in 1945. Whitcomb has been a watchmaker for 35 years, coming here from Elgin where he was associated with the Elgin Watch Co.

The Whitcombs announced that they are offering gift watches as prizes for their grand opening event.

Postpone Parcel Post Increase

WASHINGTON (AP)— Postmaster General Summerfield today postponed a scheduled April 1 increase in handling charges on some parcel post packages.

Involved is a proposed extra charge of 20 cents for all parcel post packages too large to go into mail sacks or those requiring special handling for other reasons.

Burglars Get $5 at Nachusa Grain Elevator

Burglars broke into the C. H. Strong grain elevator, Nachusa, sometime last night and took $5 from a cash register which they forced open.

According to Chief Deputy John Stouffer, the burglar pried open the unlocked register after gaining entrance to the elevator office via the basement door.

Carl Karlson, manager of the elevator, discovered evidence of the burglary at 7 a.m. today when he reported for work.

The burglars forced the basement door open, climbed a flight of stairs to the office, and proceeded to rifle the register, Stouffer said. The exact time of the burglary was not determined.

Although the elevator office also housed the Nachusa post office, nothing in the post office was disturbed, Stouffer added.

Demos Left Big Burden, Taft Claims

Republicans Hope To Avoid Increase In National Debt

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Sen. Taft of Ohio said today the Eisenhower administration has been saddled with a "terrific burden" of proposed long-range military spending in its efforts to balance the budget.

But he and Sen. Millikin of Colorado, chairman of the conference of all Republican senators, predicted that spending will be cut and an increase avoided in the 275 billion dollar legal debt limit.

"I'm sure we will not lift the debt limit," Millikin told interviewers. "If we went on the Truman budget we would have to increase it, but we're not."

"Should Know Burden"

Taft, GOP Senate leader, said the public ought to know "just what a terrific burden was left to us by the Truman administration" with its spending plans—as represented not only in the $78,600,000,000 budget former President Truman sent to Congress for the year beginning July 1, but in five-year planning for military outlays.

Supplementing this, Chairman Bridges (R-NH) of the Senate Appropriations Committee said there is a possibility that Truman underestimated spending for the next year by 2½ billion dollars. That would put the prospective deficit, by Truman's figures, at over 12 billions.

The New Hampshire senator said he understands the military services plan to spend—out of money already voted them by Congress—2½ billions more than Truman estimated.

Outlines Budget

Taft said Budget Director Joseph M. Dodge, at a White House briefing for congressional leaders Thursday, had outlined the long-range military spending plans of the Truman regime and estimated that if they were followed the national debt would rise to 300 billions in 1958.

That would require an increase in the present 275 billion dollar debt limit, a move the Eisenhower administration is determined to avoid.

The Ohio senator already has said he expects the new Republican administration to review the entire military program.

Dodge has called for reports from department heads by March 4 on spending cuts they can recommend in their fields. However, he is understood to have been met in some instances with requests from military officials for more money, not less.

Byrd's Views

Sen. Byrd (D-Va), among senators who lunched with President Eisenhower Thursday, said in a statement that the best field for savings lies in more than 100 billion dollars in appropriations made by Congress which government departments and agencies haven't spent yet.

Bridges' committee plans to go to work Monday on a supplemental appropriations bill, the first money measure this session.

The House passed it Thursday

U. of I. Economist Takes Rosy View of Farm Prices

URBANA, Ill.—(AP)—A University of Illinois farm economist took a rosy view today of current farm prices as compared with the pre-World War II period.

L. H. Simerl says in his "Farmers Outlook Letter" that, not only are many farm prices relatively higher than for things the farmer buys, but farmers have more than 40 per cent more to sell than in the 1935-39 years before the war buildup.

"There has been much talk lately about falling prices for farm products," Simerl noted. "Some people say that recent market quotations are 'depression' prices.

"We have done some checking on the official records, and here is what we found: The best years for farmers during the 1930's were the last five years, 1935-39."

As concerns prices of things farmers buy, Simerl found the official index figure that represents the over-all average of these prices was 125 during the years 1935 to 1939. For January, 1953, the index measure was 282, or 2¼ times as high.

On the other hand, Simerl says, corn was 2 1/5 times as high in January as in the pre-war five years; soybeans 3½ times as high; wheat 2½ times; oats 2½ times; hogs 2 1/7 times; beef cattle almost three times; milk 2½ times; butterfat 2½ times; chickens 1 4/5 times, and eggs 2¼ times.

"But prices tell only part of the story," Simerl concluded. "Farmers had over 40 per cent more to sell from 1952 production than they had in the 1935-39 years, when extreme drought cut production and sales volume."

Governor Not Bothered By Patronage Grumbling

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—(AP)—Gov. William G. Stratton says he isn't bothered a bit by grumbling of some Republican legislators and GOP county chairmen over his handling of patronage.

"Patronage is going fast enough. I may slow it down," he told reporters Thursday.

Questions about the rate of job dispensing by the new state administration were asked the governor during a lull in Stratton's second open house for the public.

He was told that some politicians have complained that "patronage is all messed up" and not moving speedily enough.

Not Most Important

"I'm not running a patronage office," Stratton said. "I am running the government of the state of Illinois. Patronage is not the most impotrant thing."

He said he intends to keep on with his newly inaugurated policy of giving personal attention to the politically important chore of passing out jobs.

"Then we will know who is working for us," he said.

An aide said that about 2,000 jobs have changed hands since Stratton's inauguration Jan. 12, mostly highway maintenance positions.

The number of patronage posts under the governor's control has been estimated at 18,000 to 20,000.

Aug. 1, Target Date

Stratton told newsmen that he has set next Aug. 1 as a target date for completing changeovers.

He said that job applications are being handled faster than they were at the start of the past two state administrations, when much of the work was done by patronage committees.

Others in his office acknowledged that expressions of dissatisfaction, customary at this stage, have been coming in.

About 300 persons showed up for the open house, a high proportion of them seeking employment.

Stratton intends to make his public day a weekly affair on Thursdays, and has extended a standing offer for anyone who wants to take up a problem with him personally to drop in.

The first session was held Feb. 5.

Attend the Church of Your Faith Regularly

"THE GREAT DIVIDE"

In the great Mid-West of our country stands one of the miracles of nature called "The Great Divide." Here, if a drop of water falls to the west of the divide, it goes on and on into the Pacific Ocean. If it falls to the east, it flows until it reaches the Atlantic Ocean.

In our lives, little "divides" cause us to swerve to the right or to the left; toward the thing that is right or the thing that is wrong and sinful. Little things? No, not as little as they seem, for often a little deed changes the whole course of one's life, or the life of another.

Of ourselves we can do nothing, but help is near. The Church stands ready, offering us the sure hand of Christian faith. Here we can find strength to make the right decision at every "divide" in life's way.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Southern Baptist Mission to Open Here on Sunday

HAROLD E. CAMERON

A Southern Baptist Mission is to begin its first services in Dixon Feb. 22 under the leadership of the Rev. Harold E. Cameron, Elgin.

The mission will be located in the 1300 block on South Galena. A sign is being erected in a lot on the east side of the highway indicating the location.

Sunday school is to begin at 9:30 a.m. with the worship service at 10:30 a.m. The training union is held at 6:30 p.m. and the evangelistic hour following at 7:30 p.m.

A census of the area will be taken on the afternoon of Feb. 22.

Interested persons are invited to attend the services.

Missionary Group To Give Program

The Sunday evening service at Grace Evangelical United Brethren church will be presented by the Mission band and Little Heralds of the church.

These are groups for missionary education of children. The time for this service has been changed to 7:30 p.m. Adult leaders, Mrs. John Huene and Mrs. Francis M. Loomis will be in charge.

This is the annual Thank-Offering service, with the offering going to mission work among American Indians, African natives, and the Spanish-American Mission in New Mexico.

The speaker will be Miss Laura Conrad, Rock Falls. Miss Conrad has taught in schools in Ethiopia and China.

Next fall she plans to leave for India where she will serve as general manager of a new hospital.

Parents of the children in the Mission band and Little Heralds are especially invited.

Six-Ton Whale Removed From 'Frisco Beach

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)— A six-ton dead (ugh) whale washed onto San Francisco's Ocean Beach Wednesday night was carted away Thursday—much to the relief of sensitive-nosed residents and sundry authorities.

The decaying whale was spotted in the surf by 12-year-old Norman Linoreaux. Police said it was outside their jurisdiction, the Coast Guard said it was on shore and therefore not theirs, the Public Health department agreed with the police, and the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and the State Fish and Game department indicated they were interested only in live whales.

In desperation, police suggested letting Norman handle the problem on the basis of "finder's keepers."

But late Thursday, the Royal Tallow and Soap Company appeared with a crane and hauled off the whale to reduce it to grease, tallow and fertilizer.

Everyone Optimistic About the Hereafter

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK — (AP) — Americans never had it so good on earth.

And a majority are smugly sure that, when they die, they will have it good in an afterlife, too. They are more certain of Heaven than they are afraid of Hell.

Since the World War II, the United States has seen a growing revival of interest in religion. Church membership has increased, books on religious topics often hit the best seller lists.

Clerics naturally are pleased that, even in the midst of widespread material prosperity, more and more people are turning to God for a final answer to the tension of our times. Some, however, are troubled by questions as to the real depth and understanding of religious issues this revival of interest raises.

Making Survey

How the American people feel on the fundamental tenets of religion? Catholic Digest, a monthly magazine, is making a series of surveys to find out. Its most recent poll had some unexpected and disturbing results.

It found that 99 per cent of Americans over 18 years of age believe in the existence of God, but only 77 per cent think their own individual souls will live on after death.

What happens in this afterlife? Some 72 per cent of all adult Americans believe there is a heaven, where people who have led good lives will be eternally rewarded. But only 58 per cent, on the other hand, believe there is a Hell in which bad people who died without regretting their sins will live in eternal damnation.

Americans Optimistic

As to their own chances of being punished in the hot hereafter, Americans are surprisingly optimistic. Their high opinion of their own goodness is shown by the fact that only 12 out of 100 think there is any real possibility of their going to Hell.

Catholic Digest finds this attitude dismaying, and proof that America, whether it is a righteous nation or not, is certainly too self-righteous.

While some religious leaders are disturbed by what they feel is an overly complacent attitude toward the afterlife, atheist leaders face what is for them an even more doleful problem.

"Never Lower"

"Our membership was never lower," recently complained Woolsey Teller, secretary treasurer of the American Association for the Advancement of Atheism.

The anti-religious organization, founded in 1925, reached a peak soon thereafter of 1,000 members but some months ago dropped to a low point of 340.

Ex-Communicate Priest Who Sees Doom for Non-Catholics

BOSTON—(AP)—The Rev. Leonard J. Feeney, the priest who insisted non-Catholics cannot attain salvation, has been excommunicated by the Roman Catholic Church.

The order was issued by the Sacred Congregation of the Holy Office in Rome and made public Thursday night in The Pilot, official publication of the Boston Archdiocese.

But the 55-year-old priest refused to acknowledge the dictum, declaring, "I am not excommunicated. I am once more excommunicated through channels of the Boston newspapers." He did not elaborate.

Rev. Feeney's priestly functions were withdrawn in April, 1949, by Archbishop Richard J. Cushing and he was also dismissed from the Jesuit order.

The Vatican decree climaxed a four-year-old controversy which became public with the dismissal of four instructors from Boston College, a school conducted by the Jesuit order. They were charged with teaching the Feeney doctrine that salvation is impossible outside the Catholic Church.

The Supreme Sacred Congregation of the Holy Office holds that persons outside the church may attain salvation if through ignorance they do not know the church as "divinely established by Christ" yet have an "implicit desire" to be incorporated into it and possess "a good disposition of soul whereby a person wishes his will to be conformed to the will of God."

YOU and the FUTURE — No. 12 of a SERIES

WHAT YOUR Adventist Neighbors BELIEVE

Seventh-day Adventists may be a little different, all right; but, everything considered, they are just ordinary folks.

They do not exhibit long faces, wear funny clothes, or bother anybody. They may participate in the community chorus or the Red Cross drive or other civic activities. Just like your other neighbors.

But still, they are "different." They don't smoke; but they won't preach at you if you do. They don't drink. They go to church faithfully (but on Saturday instead of Sunday) and they try to observe the Sabbath even when they aren't in church.

They operate 4,161 schools, 160 hospitals and clinics, 50 publishing houses and are established in 228 countries.

What is it that makes your Adventist neighbors the way they are? Well, in the first place, they put a great deal of emphasis on hope for the future. They believe the end of the world is near and feel an urgent obligation to prepare themselves and others for it. They believe that a vital part of their message is "the hour of his judgment is come" (Revelation 14:7), and that this message must go to all the world to prepare a people for the soon return of Christ, the Saviour.

Hope for the Future

Your Seventh-day Adventist friends are quite orthodox. They believe the Bible from Genesis to Revelation. They adhere to observance of the Ten Commandments, having no part in present-day attempts to abolish them as a rule of right and the standard of God's judgment.

They also believe that the law condemns man completely, because its sole purpose is to point out sin—and we all have sinned. Our only hope of ever receiving life eternal is in accepting the unmerited favor of Christ. We are then under His grace. But the law is still there and will condemn us as often as we sin.

Adventists believe that the seventh day of the week, now called Saturday, was consecrated by God, according to the fourth commandment, at creation (Exodus 20:11) and has been observed by many faithful ones ever since, and they observe it today.

But they certainly do not believe that, because of this, they have an exclusive title to salvation. They believe that many an honest soul with an imperfect knowledge of truth will be saved by the grace of Jesus. But so far from being an unimportant quibble, they believe the matter of Sabbath observance is fully as important as any other commandment. The Sabbath is called God's "sign." No other day would do, any more than another flag would do for patriotic citizens!

Not a Quibble

They will show you that the substitution of Sunday for the Sabbath crept into the church long after the death of Christ, and was admittedly sanctioned by the church of later centuries and thus passed along to Protestantism today.

Seventh-day Adventists feel that they have a divine mission today in helping to "restore the old paths"—pointing mankind again to the requirements of God's law, and the grace of Jesus that saves us from its penalty.

They feel the urgency of world conditions permits no frivolous conduct, but demands a sober, rational outlook, brightened by the hope of an eternity in a new and perfect world.

This is No. 12 of a series, telling briefly of the beliefs and hopes of 750,000 of your Seventh-day Adventist neighbors and friends.

What Methodists Believe

(One of a series of statements concerning the beliefs of Methodists as written by bishops of the Methodist church.)

WE BELIEVE IN GOD

We believe in God because the fact and nature of His existence are well established.

Logic leads us to believe in God. As a result of his study of the universe, Dr. Cressy Morrison, one of America's most distinguished scientists, tells us that "Man Does Not Stand Alone." The scientific arguments all prove God's presence in the world, and reason affirms what science reveals.

Experience leads us to believe in God. We believe with President Eisenhower that in the light of what is happening in the world "only a stupid person can be an atheist." The evidences of God in human life are convincing.

Jesus leads us to believe in God. Often we accept truth which we cannot comprehend on the strength of our confidence in the witness to that truth. Jesus is such a witness for God. He believed in God. People seeing Him said, "God must be like that." He understood God and trusted Him. Jesus was closer to God than any man has ever been. He had the right to speak about God; and, since He qualified as an expert on the subject, He has the right to be heard and heeded. Belief in God is strengthened when we see Him through Jesus' eyes and follow God in Jesus' footsteps.

How can we strengthen our belief in God?

1. By becoming better acquainted with Him. When God is intimately sought His realness is unmistakable.

2. By frequenting His House. "Let us not forget the assembling of ourselves together as the manner of some is."

3. By conversations through prayer with the Head of that House. When they were praying together, "Jesus stood in their midst."

4. By associating with His friends and working for Him with them. "They that do His will shall know the doctrine."

5. By knowing Jesus, His Son, who said, "I and the Father are one" and in whose Person we can see God as did His disciples.

By every test we "believe that God exists and that He is the rewarder of all them that diligently seek Him."

—Fred Pierce Corson

Stevenson's Criticism Showed Careless Lack of Vital Facts

Adlai Stevenson's first major speech since his defeat for the presidency was admirable in its generalities of fair-minded opposition and its tone of good-humored sportsmanship. But when it descended to particulars of criticism against the new administration, it often showed a glaring lack of facts.

Stevenson's celebrated sense of humor obviously was not a casualty of the election. He made his little jokes and turned many a happy phrase.

In more sober vein, he pledged constructive opposition to President Eisenhower and the Republican 83rd congress, and said the government would have Democratic support so long as it worked in the public and the national interest.

He declared, more sensibly than many of his eager followers, that 25 days is too short a span in which to judge a new president. He proposed to bide time and allow the Eisenhower administration full chance to develop its programs.

* * *

Despite these fine resolves, however, Stevenson could not resist commenting upon some events since Jan. 20, especially in the foreign field. And here he strayed sadly from the facts.

Secretary of State Dulles' recent blunt warnings to Western Europe on the issue of European unity seemed to Stevenson a sign we have turned to bullying our allies and ignoring their legitimate doubts and fears.

Stevenson apparently felt Dulles' conduct in Europe resembled the "bull in the china shop," and he implied a contrast to Democratic handling of these matters. He seemed to suggest further that much American opinion runs contrary to the Dulles approach.

But the fact is that the overwhelming majority of Americans support this new tack, including many Democrats in congress and many of Stevenson's friends in the state department.

* * *

Furthermore, some evidence exists that Chancelor Adenauer of Germany and one or two French leaders actually requested Dulles to speak bluntly in public. Adenauer now clearly believes the warning may have saved the unity project, and the general feeling in Europe—despite a certain ruffling of feathers—is that it accomplished a good deal.

Stevenson also erred in assuming that other administration moves in the foreign field add up to an ineptly conceived plan for psychological warfare against the Communists. According to those who know what is in the making, much more is afoot than a mere stepped-up propaganda drive.

Possibly we should not be too harsh with Stevenson at this early stage. His White House visit may have filled in the big gaps in his knowledge of present affairs. After all, he'd only been reading the Barbados papers for three weeks when he spoke.

Hereafter we can hope for, and we ought to have, more cautious utterances from a man of his stature in the country.

Most card players in the United States think of South American card players as Canasta enthusiasts. Actually Contract Bridge is very popular in most of the countries of South America. Today's hand is typical of South American bridge.

The hero of the hand was George Cardenas, whose home is in Colombia but who plays regularly in New York's famous Regency Club. George plays his cards very well, but he has a Latin disregard for such things as conservative bidding.

When George likes the look of a hand, he'll bid a slam with it—as he did with the hand shown today—where most American experts would bid only a game.

Does this slam-bang style of bidding pay? Probably not. But George makes a lot of slams, and this keeps him happy. Today's hand has kept him happy for many months.

West opened the king of hearts, and Cardenas won with the ace. He ruffed a heart in dummy, returned to his hand with a trump, ruffed his last heart in dummy, and returned to his hand once more with a trump.

He then ran every single one of his trumps, discarding all of the diamonds from the dummy.

Meanwhile East and West were having their troubles. Both defenders hastened to get rid of their hearts. That part of the discarding was easy. But when South led his last trump everybody had to reduce his hand to four cards. This wasn't easy.

West felt that he had to save his three spades just in case South had three spades to the ace-ten. Hence West could save only one diamond.

East felt that he had to save three spades in case South had started the hand with three spades to the ace, particularly A-J-x. Hence East, likewise, saved only one diamond.

After Cardenas had led out his last trump his last four cards were the ace and five of spades and two little diamonds. He then led the deuce of diamonds, and had the satisfaction of seeing West drop the queen and East play the ace.

He could then win the spade return with the ace, cash a heart-warming trick with the three of diamonds, and win the last trick with dummy's king of spades.

Q—The bidding has been?

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 Heart	Pass
1 Spade	Pass	?

You, South, hold: Spades 9-3, Hearts K-Q-J-7-5, Diamonds 6-2, Clubs A-K-8-4. What do you do?

A—Bid two clubs. You have a minimum opening bid and know that there is no chance for game since your partner passed originally and could not make a jump bid of any kind at his second turn. Nevertheless, you are dissatisfied with spades and are looking for the best suit.

TODAY'S QUESTION

The bidding is the same as in the question just answered. You, South, hold: Spades K-9-3, Hearts A-Q-J-7-5, Diamonds A-7-4, Clubs 6-2. What do you do?

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — The Laugh Parade: Spyros Skouras, the Greek-born movie theater magnate, was explaining the new film system known as Cinemascope to a group of MGM executives. He told about discovering the process in France and how the scientists first explained the device to him in complicated optical terms.

"But I don't understand it," Skouras told the scientists.

Then one scientist said, "It's simple, Mr. Skouras. It's an Anamorphoscope."

"Ah," beamed Skouras. "That's Greek to me. Now I get you."

When the Air Force picks up the weekly payroll cash in a small desert town on the main highway to Las Vegas, it's a scene right out of a movie. EVERBODY'S HAPPY

The foreign department of a studio once objected to the tropical locale of a movie in production, claiming there would be loud wails from a certain South American country. The film's villains, it was claimed, would be identified as natives of the South American nation.

The problem was solved in a jiffy by the film's fast-thinking producers. They hired a well-dressed doll to walk through a street scene and had one of their stars comment:

"Now how in the world did a girl like that get WAY OUT HERE in the South Pacific?"

Pegler Continues Pursuit of Effort to Show Drew Pearson as a "Liar, Political Faker"

(Copyright, 1949, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

In pursuit of my purpose to discredit Drew Pearson by proving that he is a liar, a faker and a political conspirator with a strong preference for Communists, shown by the fact that he regularly employed at least two Communists, I present today further testimony in the investigation of the flight of General Pang Tsu Mow. Mow is a Chinese procurement officer who was attached to the mission of the Republic of China in Washington. He fled to Mexico where he was arrested last August by Mexican federal police on the authority of the office of the Mexican attorney general. The testimony which I present was given under oath by John G. Broady, a New York lawyer representing the Republic of China, to a subcommittee of the Senate judiciary committee last Dec. 2 in Washington.

Westbrook Pegler

The Nationalist Chinese government seeks to recover about $7,000,000 and extradite Mow to Formosa. Other officers associated with Mow fled to Communist China. If Mow should be extradited to Formosa he might be put to death. Pearson's own lawyer, William A. Roberts, of Washington, is attorney for General Mow and I have already presented testimony by Broady that Mow, in jail in Mexico, told him, in substance "that he had been referred to Roberts and, I believe introduced to Roberts, by Drew Pearson or by Drew Pearson's leg-man, Jack Anderson."

The ensuing testimony by Broady may be rather complex, requiring concentration on the part of the reader, so let us have order in the court.

Edward R. Duffy, the investigator for the subcommittee, was conducting the examination in the presence of Senator Arthur V. Watkins, of Utah, presiding.

Mr. Duffy asked: "Do you know whether any attempts were made to verify whether Roberts cashed or redeemed a $100,000 U. S. Treasury bill which had been purchased by Mow with funds which he had embezzled from the Republic of China?"

Broady replied: "Yes; that information is verified."

Mr. Duffy: "And what information was ascertained in this regard?"

Mr. Broady: "Well, I have here with me, pursuant to the committee's subpoena, all of the documents which show this transaction."

Mr. Duffy: "What documents do you have, Mr. Broady? And what do these documents purport to show?"

Mr. Broady: "I have with me a transcript of the special account opened by Colonel William A. Roberts, with Morris Cohon & Company, brokers, 42 Broadway, New York City, on Feb. 11, 1952, and on that date this special account was opened with a $100,000 U. S. Treasury bill dated November 15, 1951, and due February 14, 1952. The proceeds of this U. S. Treasury bill were credited to this special account of William A. Roberts on Feb. 18, 1952, which put a balance in the account of $100,000, and this $100,000 was checked out of the account as follows:

"I have ascertained that the $100,000 U. S. Treasury bill which Roberts deposited in this special account was U. S. Treasury bill No. 931677 * * * * payable to bearer and was part of the $2,000,000 worth of U. S. Treasury bill which Pang Tsu Mow had purchased on or about Nov. 15, 1951, from Chemical Bank and Trust Company, Rockefeller Center Branch, New York, with funds embezzled from Republic of China. This is one of the U. S. Treasury bills which Mow told me on the day of his arrest, August 9, 1952, that Roberts knew had been purchased with funds of the Republic of China."

Broady went on to state that Morris Cohon and Company drew a check for $26,000 payable to William A. Roberts, which was certified and endorsed "William A. Roberts, deposit to account of Roberts & McGinnis in the Riggs National Bank in Washington." He then testified to a charge of $10,000 against Roberts' special account with Morris Cohon & Company and pointed out that the check in this instance had been endorsed by Morris Cohon & Company and by one Oliver Kisich. He interpreted this procedure to indicate that Roberts "was attempting to conceal his payments to Kisich." Otherwise, he suggested, Roberts would have endorsed the check himself instead of having his brokers buy it from Bankers Trust, charging the $10,000 to his account, and having the brokers endorse it, too.

Kisich is an ex-employe of the American State Department who gave assistance to Mow in getting to Mexico and getting settled.

Broady next testified to a transaction whereby $20,000 more found its way from Roberts' special account with Morris Cohon to the account of Roberts & McGinnis in the National Metropolitan Bank of Washington. Next he presented photostatic copies of checks representing $15,000 apparently paid to Kisich inasmuch as his endorsement appeared. Then he handed the committee a photostatic copy of a check for $29,000 from Morris Cohon to William Roberts, endorsed "William Roberts, Roberts & McGinnis."

Broady said: "That check shows that out of the total of $100,000 received by Roberts from the redemption of this $100,000 U. S. Treasury bill purchased with funds embezzled by Roberts' client, Mow, after Roberts commenced to represent Mow, $75,000 went into the till of Roberts & McGinnis and $25,000 went to Kisich."

Prayer for TODAY

Eternal God, Father of all mankind, we are conscious this day of our failures, our inadequacies in a world so much in need of thy Light, thy Truth. Forgive us for the inequalities we tolerate in thy family on earth. May we grow in thy grace, making our lives adequate through thy Light and Power. Help us to work together, sharing those blessings which we have in such abundance. Amen.

It's Not How Much You Recall But What You Recall

News item with a London dateline:

"Got a poor memory? Take heart. A British investigator says you can run rings around even a brainier person. It's not how much you remember, but what you choose to remember."

For a wife, here are a few items she should be sure to include in what she "chooses to remember":

The shirt that needs a button sewed on or the socks that need darning. If there's a choice beween remembering an item like that and remembering to remind your husband that he hasn't yet fixed a leaky faucet, remember the shirt or the socks.

That a "soft answer turneth away wrath." That's far simpler than trying to recall how a foolish quarrel got started in the first place.

Not to interrupt when your husband is telling a story. That will be far more appreciated than remembering a date and correcting his facts.

REMEMBER TO BE UNRUFFLED

To keep calm in small household emergencies. If you can do that you won't have to wrack your brains quite so hard to remember where you put this or put that.

The interests of others. The woman who does that is credited with more than a good memory. She is also credited with an understanding heart.

Remember so many of the good things that happen to you that there isn't room to store up past hurts and nurse old grudges.

And remember to make your guests feel comfortable and at home in your house, but forget to try to make an impression on them.

And if you want men to find you attractive, never for a minute forget that a man is a man.

Dixonaires Win Acclaim In 1953 Show

"Dixonaires, Inc." scored another triumph Thursday evening with their second original production, "It Takes Two." Nearly 600 Dixonites and out of towners were among the first nighters attending the show at Dixon High school auditorium. The musical fantasy, three acts and five scenes of elaborate costuming, beautiful music and perfect dancing, will be repeated again this evening at 8 o'clock.

Nearly 75 "Dixonaires" including the stars, supporting cast and production and planning crews were responsible for the hit production which was under the direction of Jerry Greasby. Having a garden setting the tender story centers around the beautiful Valerie Giltworth, Mrs. Theldon Myers, and her pursuit to find her dream man, Jeffrey Prince, George Hooper. Outstanding is the Dream scene in the second act which is entirely singing and dancing.

A few changes in the cast were announced last evening in that Cal Arold took the part of Valerie's father and the French artist; Dick Gordon played the part of the Spaniard and Jack Gannon portrayed the athlete. Three DeKalb men were additions to the orchestra and Dick Snyder will join the orchestra tonight, playing the drums. Tickets for tonight will be available at the door.

To Reside on Farm Near Polo

MR. AND MRS. PAUL K. BRENNER were wed at the First Methodist church, Dixon. Mrs. Brenner is the former Betty Maves.

Betty Maves Bride of Paul K. Brenner, Polo

Following a northern honeymoon, newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Paul K. Brenner will be at home on a farm northwest of Polo. Mrs. Brenner is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Maves, 717 North Dixon ave., Dixon, and Paul is the son of the late Perle Brenners, Polo.

Candelabra and baskets of white gladioli and snapdragons decorated the First Methodist church, Dixon, for the 2 p.m. wedding Sunday, Feb. 15. Rev. Sidney Bloomquist performed the double ring ceremony. Mrs. J. H. Hughes, Amboy, was organist and Miss Marge Everett, Dixon, soloist. Vocal selections before the ceremony were "Because" and "I Love You Truly "Because" and "I Love Thee" and as the couple knelt at the altar, "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father the bride was beautiful in a gown of appliqued lace and pleated nylon tulling over satin. The white floor length gown was fashioned with a cathedral train. Betty carried a white Bible, upon which white roses and stephanotis rested and her pearls were a gift from the bridegroom. For something old she carried a watch that had belonged to her late Grandfather Maves; her something borrowed was a handmade hankie from Turkey and she wore a penny in her shoe and the traditional blue garter. Her fingertip veil was held in place by a lace Juliette cap.

Bolero Jacket

As maid of honor, Miss Eleanor Powell, Rock Falls, wore a lavender taffeta gown styled with a net skirt and bolero jacket. She wore a wreath of pink carnations to match her bouquet. Misses Sandra and Louise Maves, Dixon, sisters of the bride, and Tamera Thompson, Dixon, bridesmaids, were dressed similar to the maid of honor, their gowns being of green.

Robert Wolf, Polo, served his cousin as best man and George Maves, Dixon, brother of the bride, was groomsman. Robert Folkers and Henry Englebarts, Polo, and Glen Hart, Dixon, ushered. The men of the wedding party wore tuxedos.

Miss Janet Kested, Dixon, was flower girl and her brother, Roger, was ring bearer, wearing a white Eton jacket and navy trousers. Janet wore a lavender taffeta floor length frock.

The bride's mother wore a navy taffeta dress with pink accessories and a pink carnations corsage for the ceremony and the bridegroom's grandmother, Mrs. Mae Coffman, Mt. Morris, wore a black spring print dress with black accessories and a white carnation corsage.

Reception at Church

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the church dining room. Mrs. Robert Wolf cut the cake; Misses Rose O'Hare and Phyllis Glim poured; Miss Diane Long had charge of the guest book and Misses Eileen Huffman and Celia Dieterle were in charge of the gifts. Ladies of Circle B of the church also assisted.

When the newlyweds departed for their honeymoon the bride donned a pink and grey suit with matching accessories and wore the rose corsage from her bouquet.

A graduate of the Dixon public schools, the bride is a member of Dixonaires and Community Players. She is employed as cashier at the Polo office of the Public Service company. The bridegroom, a graduate of Polo schools, served overseas for two and one-half years with the army in World War II. Engaged in farming, he is also a member of the VFW.

Mrs. Edward Jones and Mrs. Stirling P. Stackhouse were hostesses for the meeting. Mrs. Dement Schuler presided at the attractively decorated tea table following the meeting.

CAMERA CLUB TO MEET

A meeting of the newly organized Camera club will be held at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Feb. 23, at Loveland Community House. Anyone interested in photography is invited to attend.

Now Tot Can Go Longer Without Eating

Three-Meals-Per-Day Schedule Should Be Reached Gradually

By ELEANOR S. DUNCAN

Now that the baby is getting a larger variety and quantity of solid foods, he is able to go for longer periods of time without eating.

We said before that with the addition of solids, he would begin working toward a three-meals-per-day schedule. This, like everything else, won't happen overnight or at any set time. It may be that your baby has already made the switch; perhaps he won't be ready for some time. There is no need to hurry him, but you can be manipulating things a bit in that direction.

During this period of transition to three meals a day, it doesn't matter when the baby drinks his milk, so long as he gets at least 20 ounces a day. We don't mean by this that you can give him milk so immediately before a meal that it will spoil his appetite, but it is permissible to eliminate milk at lunch if he drinks about seven ounces in the middle of the morning.

We repeat that a schedule like this should be reached gradually. After breakfast, return him to bed for as long as he will stay happily. If the baby cries for milk at 10 a.m. and has little appetite at 12 for his solids, he isn't ready for a three-meal-a-day regime.

By the time your baby reaches his ninth month, he may be doing all or some of the following things:

1. Sitting up. Some babies, usually fatter ones, will have a hard time assuming the sitting position for several months yet, but once they are seated they can hold the pose easily.

2. Rolling over. There is trouble with this also if the baby is heavy. Or maybe he just doesn't want to.

3. Adding consonants to his speech, "Da da," "Ga ga," and so forth.

4. Moving rhythmically to music. Sometimes with his entire body, sometimes just the head or arms or legs.

5. Creeping. There are almost as many ways of creping and crawling as there are babies. If yours develops a rare, unorthodox way of self-propulsion, let him do it that way. Some babies don't creep at all; they just wait a while longer than their brothers before they try locomotion, then stand up and walk one fine day.

When your baby begins to creep, remove from his reach anything with sharp points or other harmful characteristics. But in each room do place a few objects that belong to him, always keeping them in the same place so he will know where to find them.

If possible, have a room reserved for him where he can crawl around and play with no restrictions whatsoever. A sound-making push toy or favorite plaything placed just beyond his reach will stimulate his efforts.

Block off with chairs or gates all dangerous places such as hot radiators, stairways, and electric outlets, and then leave him alone. Yes, he is bound to have a few bumps and falls. But they are part of his education. He will soon learn good balance and how to avoid being hurt. When he has a slight accident, speak to him in a comforting but matter-of-fact voice, telling him he is all right. You will know immediately from his cry if the bump was hard enough to require a little session of love and sympathy.

(Next: Nine to Twelve Months.)

When his breakfast is over, return baby to bed for as long as he'll stay there happily. After lunch, he'll nap again.

This Is Time of Year When Military Paints Grim Picture of Future

By ELTON C. FAY
AP Military Affairs Reporter

WASHINGTON (AP)—This is the season when the picture turns grim and things are in a hell of a fix.

It is the time when each of the armed forces tells how good it is.

It is the time of budget-making. It happens every year, in peace and war.

Some years there are mysterious rumors of foreign submarines cruising off American shores. Other years there are vapor trails from highflying, unseen, unknown aircraft above the northern defense perimeter. And some years people just sit down and add up all the military and diplomatic perplexities and intelligence estimates and come up with a broad and brooding and black picture.

Get Gloomy Story

A group of congressional leaders emerged Thursday from a White House session with military, intelligence and national security council officials speaking cryptically but apprehensively of the briefing they had.

Across the Potomac at the Pentagon the armed forces' three services wanted folks to know how each of them was ready to fight any kind of war in any kind of place.

The Navy announced it had developed a fully pressurized flying suit which would allow "Navy pilots" (the press release didn't say why other pilots couldn't wear it too) to "travel in safety in the extreme upper atmosphere — or even in outer space."

The account had the rapt and slightly annoyed interest of the Air Force.

Air Force Has One

The Air Force, with practically no urging, was ready to produce a press release it issued last Oct. 4, saying it then had a new type pressure suit "enabling pilots to survive in the near vacuum of the upper atmosphere." In that release, the author waited until he got down eight paragraphs to say the suit "resembles to some extent the popular conception of a space suit."

The Army, perhaps not wanting to be overlooked when ideas about rocket-age arsenals were being circulated, came up with a summary of its program in the guided missile field. It announced:

"The Army now has weapons that aim themselves after the trigger is pulled—and it is almost impossible for them to miss a target. . . . Fantastic though it may seem, one of the Army's surface-to-air missiles . . . carries a guidance system designed to out-maneuver and hit enemy aircraft."

The enemy plane, said the Army, may "dive, climb, bank, side-slip or turn tail—but the Army's new weapons still will knock them out of the skies."

The Army's account came out late in the day. Presumably there wasn't time left for the Navy or Air Force to get out reports on their fantastic robot weapons.

Malpractice Suit Thrown Out of Court

Judge Robert Bracken, circuit court, today allowed a motion to strike the complaint against Dr. William A. McNichols, charged in a $120,000 damage suit with medical malpractice.

The plaintiffs, Mr. and Mrs. Prima Passina, Spring Valley, were given 30 days in which to file an amended complaint with the court.

The Spring Valley couple filed the damage suit on Jan. 3, 1952, and charged the local eye, ear and nose specialist with injuring Mrs. Julia Passina by removing a portion of her right vocal cord in an operation on Jan. 21, 1950.

Judge Bracken held the hearing today on a "motion to strike the complaint" filed on Feb. 1, 1952.

Attorneys Dixon, Bales and Gunner represented the defendant at today's hearing while Attorney Paul D. Perona was the plaintiff's counsel.

In the original complaint, the Passinas asked for $60,000 damages and an additional $60,000 in punitive damages.

They claimed in the complaint that Dr. McNichols performed an operation on the plaintiff when he allegedly was merely to examine her throat. She claimed to have had serious throat disorders since that time.

East, West Germany in Trade Pact

BERLIN (AP)— East and West Germany agreed Thursday night to exchange almost 100 million dollars worth of goods in 1953.

A West German delegation announced the new protocol calls for trade worth 408 million marks ($97,104,000).

Under a similar agreement in 1951, East and West Germany exchanged 321 million marks ($76,398,000) thus far. Some parts of the latter agreement have not yet been fulfilled.

Under the new agreement, West Germany will deliver machinery, rolling mill and other iron products as well as textiles, chemical and agricultural products.

In return the Russian zone will ship coal, agricultural products, textiles, basic chemical materials and mineral oil products to the West.

Demos Left

after cutting sharply the $2,313,719,590 asked by Truman, who sent up the requests before he left the White House. The House sliced the bill to $925,172,920. Most of the reduction came through elimination of $1,200,000,000 asked to pay a military pay raise voted last year by Congress. The House told the Pentagon to find the money out of funds already on hand.

Daschbach Contests Divorce

Frank J. Daschbach jr., Plum Hollow road, Thursday filed an answer to charges brought against him by his wife, Jane, in a complaint for divorce filed in the office of John O. Shaulis, circuit court clerk, on Jan. 27.

In Daschbach's answer, he denied that he engaged in extreme and repeated cruelty as his wife claimed in her complaint.

He further denied that he is a man of violent temper and abusive manners and unfit to have custody of their infant child.

Daschbach also claimed that his wife is not a resident of Lee county and that she wasn't prior to the filing of the divorce complaint. He said she lives in Ogle county.

The defendant admitted that they were married on Feb. 23, 1952, in Dixon, but denied that his wife was a true, loving, and affectionate wife.

He admitted being employed, but that said employment was subject to the opening of the Plum Hollow golf course. He denied that his wife was without means to support herself and a minor child.

Daschbach claimed that his wife deserted and abandoned their matrimonial home on Jan. 20, of her own free will, and without his fault.

He denied that she was entitled to a divorce, custody of the child, alimony, or child support, or that he should have to pay attorney's fees for the divorce action.

Another divorce action was filed today by Mrs. Elsie L. Carr, Amboy, charging her husband, Clifford, with extreme and repeated cruelty.

In the complaint Mrs. Carr charged her husband on numerous instances with having struck and otherwise abusing her.

According to Mrs. Carr, they were married on Sept. 28, 1929, at Preston, Minn., and lived together until Jan. 7, 1953.

According to the complaint, they have one child, Jerre Cornell, born Aug. 28, 1944. Since Jan. 7, the child has been in the custody of his grandparents.

In asking for a divorce, Mrs. Carr requested that custody of the child go to the brother and sister-in-law of the defendant.

She asked that the husband be made to pay child support and that she be awarded sole and exclusive ownership of personal property accumulated during the marriage.

Mrs. Carr stated in the complaint that she is working and supports herself, but that she isn't making enough to support the child.

She also asked that her husband pay reasonable attorney fees in conducting the suit for divorce.

In the decree, the husband was ordered to pay $7 a week child support and was granted the custody of the child on each Saturday of the week from noon until 8 p.m.

Mrs. Conway waived her rights to any alimony in her complaint for divorce filed this morning.

In the complaint, she charged that her husband engaged in extreme and repeated cruelty.

The court ordered that the defendant pay court costs.

A Mailman Fights Back!

CUMBERLAND, Md. (AP)— The mailman's continuing battle with dogs took a reverse twist here today. A dog owner sued a mailman for a "vicious and wanton" attack on his pet—a chihuahua.

David T. Tharp sought $5,000 damages from mail carrier John J. Clark in circuit court.

Tharp's suit charged that Clark "viciously and wantonly stamped the dog to death" and quoted the mailman as declaring he'd kill all the dogs and cats he found.

Dixon Husband Enjoined From Molesting Wife

An injunction issued by Lee county circuit court today ordered Fred M. Thurm, rural, Dixon, not to molest his wife, Ora, who filed a complaint for divorce in the circuit court.

According to the divorce complaint, Mrs. Thurm claimed that her husband had become addicted to intoxicating liquors and has engaged in extreme and repeated cruelty.

In the complaint, she said she feared for her life and liberty as a result of her husband's actions. She asked that the court enjoin her husband from molesting her.

She further requested that he be enjoined from disposing or selling any personal property of their house trailer or the trailer, or from coming on its premises.

In asking for the divorce, she requested alimony.

Extend Probation Term of Dixonite

Darrel Hunt, 20, of 77 Van Buren av., was ordered into Lee county circuit court today to show cause why his probation should not be terminated.

Hunt was placed on a year probation on May 12, 1952, when he pleaded guilty to the charge of burglary.

Last Saturday, he pleaded guilty at a justice of the peace hearing to the charge of reckless driving; violating the terms of his probation ordering him not to break any laws.

Judge Robert Bracken, circuit court saw fit today to allow Hunt to remain on probation, but with a modification of that probation.

The one year probation term was extended to five years with the stipulation that he not own or drive a car.

Hunt was arrested last Saturday and charged with reckless driving on East River street when he hit two poles and almost plunged into the river.

It was disclosed in court that subsequent to being placed on probation, he was arrested for tampering with a motor vehicle and sentenced to 60 days at Vandalia work farm by Lee county court.

Shaving
Remember how you used to watch father sharpen his big, shiny razor on a leather strop? The sharp blade fairly made you c-r-i-n-g-e. Nevertheless, boy-like, you looked forward to the day when you too would use one. By that time, safety razors had been invented. And now, the buzz of electric shavers tells of even more modern shaving methods. Remember?

Propose 11 Amendments To the State Constitution

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—(AP)—Eleven proposals for amending the state Constitution have been laid before the Illinois General Assembly, just getting down to business in its six months session.

Most of those on file and more to come are headed for the legislative waste basket since any Assembly is permitted to recommend changes to only three articles of the 1870 basic charter.

Top priority is expected to be given to plans on changing the state treasurer's term, the court system and remapping legislative districts.

Stratton's Objectives

These three objectives were adopted by Gov. William G. Stratton in his inaugural message.

Two years ago, former Governor Stevenson's advice was disregarded on two of the three amendments he advocated, and there is no assurance that Stratton will fare better.

For one thing, many legislators take a chill view of any far reaching revision of the state judicial system — such as the one proposed by a joint committee of the Chicago and Illinois Bar Associations.

The bar group wants places on the bench filled by appointment rather than by election. Its aim is to take judges out of politics.

May Support Plan

Stratton has indicated he may support the bar group's plan, provided some features are modified.

None of the amendments submitted so far deals with the Constitution's judicial article but the bar committee has promised one, and there might be others.

Sources close to the governor say he intends to press for action first on a resolution calling for a four year term for state treasurers. A treasurer now is elected for two years.

He reportedly favors action next on court revision, leaving the hot subject of legislative reapportionment for last.

Six versions already have come in on providing a new basis for aligning boundaries of the 51 legislative districts, each currently electing one state senator and three House memebers.

"Eye-to-Eye"

The sponsor of one, Rep. Arthur W. Sprague (R-LaGrange) says Stratton has told him he sees "eye to eye" with Sprague on general objectives.

Under Sprague's proposal, Chicago and Cook County would be given a narrow margin of control in the House, ending downstate dominance of both legislative branches.

Some influential downstaters, Republicans and Democrats, insist there's no chance at all of winning the required two thirds vote in each chamber for such a plan.

Approval by two thirds of Senate and House members on a proposed Constitution change would refer it in November, 1954, for a statewide vote on final acceptance or rejection.

Other pending resolutions on constitutional amendment would lower the voting age from 21 to 18, allow lease or sale of the Illinois and Michigan Canal, and give all cities home rule.

NATO Group Boosts Fund For Defense

PARIS (AP)—The NATO Council in a surprise move has promised Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway 224 million dollars more for 1953 European military construction—money it denied him last December. Now the council has to figure out which country will pay how much.

Allocation of the additional 224 million—matching the same amount approved at the council meeting last December—was announced Thursday night by Lord Ismay, British secretary general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The new allotment gave Ridgway, NATO's supreme commander, a bonus. In December he said 428 million dollars was the minimum needed for 1953 construction of air bases, jet fuel pipelines, communications and headquarters installations in Western Europe.

The December economy move drew sharp criticism from Ridgway. He said a slackening of the NATO defense effort could not be excused.

Commenting Thursday night on the increase, a spokesman at Ridgway's headquarters said: "Too bad it's come two months too late."

Val Peterson Lands a Job

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former Gov. Val Peterson of Nebraska took over today as federal civil defense administrator, on an acting basis pending Senate confirmation.

The White House, in announcing the appointment Thursday, said it was cleared with Nebraska's Senators Butler and Griswold, both Republicans, who voiced no objections.

The two reportedly were ready to block confirmation of Peterson's appointment as ambassador to India when it was under consideration last month. Peterson had run against Butler for Nebraska's GOP Senate nomination.

Peterson succeeds James J. Wadsworth as civil defense chief and will draw $17,500 annually as compared with the $15,000 which went with his job as a White House administrative assistant.

Canada Cuts Income Tax $361 Million

OTTAWA—(AP)—Canada's government announced a new budget Thursday night to cut taxes an estimated 361 million dollars in 1954. It included an 11 per cent drop in the income tax and reduction in corporation levies.

The new program also:

1. Reduced the cost of legal cigarets to 35 cents a pack by lopping four cents off the federal take immediately.

2. Eliminated a 10 per cent sales tax on newsprint for domestic consumers only. It was not assessed on newsprint sold to U. S. papers.

3. Removed its $2.50 a year radio license fees.

4. Trimmed an estimated one million dollars a year in import tariffs on manufactured articles, most of them bought from the United States.

The income tax cut is effective July 1. With that, it was estimated, approximately two-thirds of the Canadian taxes imposed following the outbreak of the Korean War in 1950 will have been removed.

The budget predicted the government, in the fiscal year beginning April 1, would spend $1,462,000,000, including just over two billion dollars for defense. Income was estimated at a record $4,473,000,000 which would leave a surplus of 11 million dollars in Canada's eighth successive revenue excess.

Present average income taxes—including an unchanged 2 per cent social security tax—for a married man with two children range from $130 on an income of $3,000 to $24,406 on $50,000. Under the new schedule, estimated tax figures in 1953 for these brackets would be $126 and $22,397.

The corporation tax previously took 20 per cent of the first $10,000 in profits and 50 per cent of all profits above that figure. Under the new budget, the tax will be 18 per cent on the first $20,000 and 47 per cent on all above that.

Children Should Stop Watching TV At 9 p. m.: Judge

CHICAGO —(AP)— Young children should stop watching television by 9 o'clock and go to bed, Circuit Judge Julius H. Miner told a couple at a divorce hearing Thursday. Charles Mondel, 32, a paint foreman, had asked for an injunction to prevent his wife, Wanda, 29, from allowing their two children to stay up and watch TV after 8 p.m.

"I have the same problem with my three children," Judge Miner said, "but I solve it by sending them to bed at 9 o'clock."

Judge Miner decided against a formal injunction, but set a 9 o'clock curfew for the Mondel children, Carol Ann, 12, and Ronald, 4. If it isn't obeyed, Judge Miner said, he'll order the Mondel TV set impounded.

"Adam" is the Hebrew word for "man."

WHAT'S the SCORE?

By NORM JOLLOW

Lee Center coach Dan Moore, who is having a successful season with the Bulldogs in his first year as L. C. mentor, is looking toward the future with more than a little confidence.

* * * *

THE BULLDOGS have won only four games this season while losing 12, but comparing that to the past few seasons when they went almost three seasons before winning a game last year, that isn't a bad year for Lee Center.

* * * *

However, Moore is eyeing next year and the year after when his underclassmen take over the reins. His underclassmen unit has won 13 and lost four so far this season and as grade school students, these boys won the county championship two years in a row. This year Lee Center's grades won second place, finishing behind Amboy.

* * * *

PACING THIS SEASON'S frosh-soph aggregation, which stands a good chance of forming the first team next year are Bob Scheffler, George Mace, and Roger Schnell, sophomores and Dan Schnell, freshman. Don Schnell, as a freshman, already is seeing plenty of varsity action along with playing most of the frosh-soph games.

* * * *

Three juniors will be holdovers next season, Ed Baylor, Bollman and Bob Scheffler, and if present consideration means anything, these boys probably will become the first line of reserves next year.

* * * *

AFTER HAVING once gone 35 games without a victory, Lee Center certainly is due for a winning season.

* * * *

An item of interest to duck hunters comes in over the Associated Press wire today which I'll pass along to you from the column.

* * * *

BECAUSE OF THE MILD WINTER in most of the state, about 15 times as many Mallard ducks as last year are spending the winter in Illinois. The State Conservation Department reported Thursday a recent survey showed 1,362,400 Mallards in the state, mostly along the Illinois and Mississippi River Valleys. A year ago the number was only 84,380.

* * * *

Joe Davidson, game management supervisor, said the ducks like to stay around provided their feeding grounds in the valleys are not covered with snow and the rivers frozen over.

* * * *

IF SUCH CONDITIONS develop, he said, the birds go on south to Arkansas and Tennessee.

* * * *

A count on Canada geese showed 146,500 in the state, or about 13 per cent more than a year ago. In recent years, the state has been expanding refuge areas in the Horseshoe Lake region in Alexander County, and that's where most of them were found.

* * * *

TABULATIONS OF BOTH WILDFOWL VARIETIES are made by spot checks annually to gauge the following year's brood prospects. The work is carried on by state and federal game biologists.

* * * *

The six areas surveyed for Mallards were Crab Orchard Lake, 6,400; Union County, 45,000; Jackson County, 123,000; Horseshoe Lake, 129,000; Wabash River Valley, 515,000; Mississippi Valley from Dallas City to Batchtown, 148,000, and Illinois Valley around Havana, 396,000.

* * * *

A CONCENTRATION of 365,000 Mallards was sighted feeding on Quiver and Chatauqua Lakes, a few miles north of Havana.

* * * *

The Canada geese were seen in the Crab Orchard area, Union County and around Horseshoe Lake.

Hoosiers Could Set New Conference Win Record

CHICAGO —(AP)— Indiana has a chance to set an all-time Big Ten basketball record. Undefeated in 12 games thus far, the Hoosiers have six games left. If they win them all, their 18-0 conference record would be unprecedented in the league.

Only two remaining Indiana games will be played away from home. They are at Illinois Feb. 28 and Minnesota March 7. They could lose one game and still keep the gates shut against a possible title deadlock with Illinois.

Indiana has never taken sole possession of a conference title. The Hoosiers tied three times, with Michigan, Purdue and Iowa in 1925-26, and the Purdue in 1927-28 and again in 1935-36.

Only six teams have ever gone through the Big Ten season undefeated in 48 years, and none has played more than 12 games. The last time an undefeated team emerged was in 1942-43 when the Illinois Whiz Kids took 12 straight.

Indiana entertains Ohio State (6-7) Saturday while Illinois (10-2) is at Iowa (4-8), Wisconsin (6-7) at Michigan (2-10) and Purdue (3-10) at Michigan State (7-5).

Don Schlundt, 6-9 Hoosier center, has scored a record-making 118 free throws, missing only 22 of 140 attempts, and has made 97 field goals out of 212 tries for a .458 percentage. His 312 points for a 26 average tops the league. Ohio State's 6-4 center, Paul Ebert, is second with a 22.5 average.

College Grad May Jump Right Into Bosox Lineup

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK—(AP)—Flushed with his successful innovation last year, Manager Lou Boudreau of Boston will resume the special pre-training school for Red Sox farm hands next month with the hopes of coming up with another Dick Gernert, Ted Lepcio or Faye Throneberry.

One of the youngsters sure to be invited to that special class, if he hasn't been already, is Harry Agganis, football star of Boston University who was given a $60,000 bonus to sign with the Sox.

Agganis is a lefthanded hitting first baseman but may be taught the finer points of outfielding. There are two very good reasons for that. Number One is that in Gernert, the Red Sox have a young first sacker who led all mates last year with 19 home runs and 67 runs batted in. Reason Number Two is that Boston is shy of good outfielders.

In any event, the Sox can ill afford to bench Gernert, a long-hitting righthander, in favor of Agganis, even if Harry can make the grade in one jump from the college campus.

Last year at B. U., Agganis batted .332 and hit four home runs, four doubles and three triples.

Throneberry and Dick Brodowski, two of last years pupils who made the big jump to the big leagues, have gone into the service, but in their places will be such as outfielder Bryan Stephens and pitchers Ben Flowers, Tom Herrin and George Uhaze.

Stephens had a brief trial with Boston last year but did most of his playing with Louisville, where he hit .282. Flowers, a San Diego product, comes up with an 11-10 record. Uhaze won 18 and lost 10 at Albany.

Bill Henry and Hersch Freeman, up with Boston for a cup of coffee in '52 are back. Freeman won eight at Louisville and Henry copped seven at San Diego.

Jimmy Piersall, who began as the regular shortstop last year but was shipped to Birmingham before he was hospitalized, is back. But this time, he will vie for an outfield post. A brilliant defensive performer, Piersall is almost certain to win the right field post barring a return of his illness.

Charlie Maxwell, who batted .282, drove in 85 runs and smashed 21 homers at Louisville, is another outfield candidate.

Dukes Battle for Spot In NCIC 1st Division

Barbs Have Advantage Of Height

Hubs at Geneseo, Rock Falls Visits Mendota in Loop

The Dixon Dukes go after their fourth North Central conference victory tonight when they move over to DeKalb. The Barbs currently have a 3-2 record, good enough for third place, while the Dukes have four losses to go with their three current loop wins.

For one of the few times this season, the Dukes will be taking on a team that has the height advantage. Only one of the probable starters is under 6 foot.

Barb Coach George Dertinger, who was quoted as saying the Dixon suspension was a ruse to fire up Dixon to beat DeKalb, will probably start Ed O'Donnell (6-3) and Ron Setchell (6-4) at forwards, Bob Swanbum (6-3) at center, and Jack Vogeler (6-3) and Bob Vaugh (5-9) at guards. Dick Paszotta may get the starting nod over Setchell.

Swanbum is the leading scorer for the Barbs with 88 points in five conference games for an average of 17.6 points. Jack Vogeler is second with 59 points in five loop tilts.

Over the entire season, DeKalb has won 13 games and lost five. They made it to the finals of their own holiday tournament before bowing out to Leiden of Franklin Park.

A victory becomes a must for Dixon if the Dukes hope to stay in the first division of the NCIC. At present, the Dukes are in a three way tie for fifth place with Rock Falls and Princeton.

Coach Lon Scofield at Dixon has been undecided about a starting line-up since the loss of Jim Gorman who faces possible ineligibility.

However, at last report, Scofield was considering Larry Lund or Karl Olsen at center, Jerry Curran and Jim DeYoung or Pat Kernan at forwards with Jack Munson and Merle Pittman at guards.

The Mendota Trojans, sporting a 14-7 record for the season, but winner of only one of six conference tilts will try again tonight by entertaining Rock Falls. The Trojans hold their lone victory over fourth place Geneseo, clipping the Leafs 79-60.

Rock Falls, meanwhile, has failed to win a loop victory in its last four outings after running away from the loop with three straight to open the campaign. The Rockets snapped a seven game losing streak Saturday night by defeating Morrison.

Rochelle's Hubs, having smelled victory for the first time in league competition Friday when they defeated Mendota, will try for two tonight in a visit to Geneseo. The Leafs have 4-3 record while Rochelle has won one and lost six.

League leading Ottawa will travel to Princeton with expectations to keep their hold on first place and thereby set up a championship game with Sterling next week.

Sterling will be at home to Hall Township (2-4) and should come through the test with flying colors.

Should both Ottawa (7-0) and Sterling (6-1) win, a showdown battle will be the order of the day next Friday night when the two meet in the final game of the season.

Area games tonight finds Mt. Morris at Polo and Oregon at Lanark in Blackhawk play, Tiskilwa at Ohio in the Little Eight, Winnebago at Ashton and Pecatonica at Forreston in Route 72 tilts, Milledgeville at Amboy and Pawpaw at Steward.

St. Louis U. Writes NIT Ticket By Swamping NYU, 98-78

NEW YORK (AP)— St. Louis university virtually wrote its own invitation to the National Invitation Basketball tournament Thursday night by swamping New York university, 98-78, at Madison Square Garden.

But St. Louis Coach Eddie Hickey said he was doubtful that a bid could be accepted.

"We've missed an awful lot of school on this road trip," Hickey said. The team has been away from St. Louis since last Friday and won't get home until Sunday.

"It will be up to the university authorities," the coach continued, "and they may think another trip back here would be too much."

St. Louis won the NIT in 1947 and has played in it three times since then, including last year.

The NIT, which opens March 7, has corraled four of its needed dozen teams—unbeaten Seton Hall, ranked No. 1 nationally in the Associated Press poll; fourth-ranking LaSalle; ninth-ranking Western Kentucky; and Manhattan College of New York, No. 13 in the poll.

St. Louis is unranked nationally and has only a 13-9 record.

Marseilles Wins Title At Amboy

AMBOY —(Special)—Marseilles, judged by many as a top contender for heavyweight grade school cage honors, won the Section 6 tournament at Amboy last night by defeating Amboy, 56-34.

It was the first loss of the season for Amboy, Lee county champs, which had rolled up 14 straight victories before last night.

For Marseilles, which has lost only one game to DePue this season, a 15 point bulge at halftime was enough to work on. Amboy made its one threat in the third period when they chopped the Marseilles lead to 12 points. However, the champs came back with 13 points to three for Amboy in the final period to clinch matters.

Stan Truckenbrod and John Anderson topped the Amboy scoring with eight points each, but Gibson with 22 points on ten baskets and two free throws was the high scorer for the evening.

Marseilles will be one of 16 schools to compete for the state crown at a site to be determined when all section winners are announced.

The box score:

Marseilles (56)	G.	F.	P.	Amboy (31)	G.	F.	P.

ABC to Open Tournament In Chicago

CHICAGO (AP)— The World Series of bowling, the American Bowling Congress Tournament, will open a record-breaking 93-day stand in Chicago Saturday with an all-time high of 43,000 entries.

Bowlers competing in the ABC's golden jubilee meet will represent 1,298 cities in 44 states. A record prize list of $573,860 is offered, nearly $19,500 more than last year at Milwaukee.

Topping the 8,180 teams entered is Pfeiffer's of Detroit, formerly E & B, the defending champion with a 1952 winning tally of 3,115.

Chicago's Al Sharkey is back to try to defend his singles crown from 29,816 other keglers. Among the 23,886 all-events entries will be defending titlist Steve Nagy of Cleveland. He won last year with 2,065. Nagy also will be protecting his doubles crown with partner Johnny Klares of Cleveland.

Knockin' 'Em Down

By STEVE NAGY
Bowler-of-the-Year

As you practice and bowl more games each week, you'll develop a more consistent delivery, will be able to roll the ball into the pocket more frequently.

If you hit the pocket consistently you are bound to get your share of strikes.

What is a strike pocket hit? A ball which first strikes the number-one pin on the right side, then hits the number-three pin on the left side and continues hooking in and smacks the number-five pin, also on the right side.

The number-five pin is the big pin in getting your strikes.

If the ball is a mere fraction of an inch to one side or the other in striking the 1-3 pocket, the pins do not react as they should. The result generally causes a split or a difficult spare to try to pick up.

And from 60 feet, the human eye cannot always detect the slight deflection of the ball as it moves into the pocket. Then, too, some balls which strike the 1-3 pocket correctly are not turning properly and the ball tends to "flatten out" and miss the number-five pin entirely.

Because such a ball does not strike the pins properly after it has hit the pocket, the pins do not react as they should and you have missed your strike.

NEXT: Importance of perfecting own style.

Stanky Shows the Boys How

Major League Pitchers Already Predict They'll Have Good Year

By BEN OLAN

Major league hurlers will get down to serious spring training business in a couple of days but so far the pitch is the usual "I'm gonna have a great year."

Russ Meyer, acquired by the Brooklyn Dodgers in a four-club, five-player transaction this week, reported to the Brooks' camp at Vero Beach, Fla., Thursday and said he'd help the Dodgers win a second straight National League pennant.

"If I pitch the type of ball I did last season," he said, "I have a good chance of winning 20 games."

Russ posted a mediocre 13-14 slate in 1952 with the Philadelphia Phillies.

Washington's Bob Porterfield, another tough luck moundsman, declared at Orlando, Fla., "I'm going to come up with a big year."

The 28-year-old pitcher has been the victim of a broken finger, a line drive which creased his skull and another which hit his leg and kept him out of action a month.

At Tampa, Detroit Manager Freddie Hutchinson said the Tigers' pitching staff will be the best in the American League. The Bengals finished in the cellar in 1952.

Art Houtteman, Ned Garver, Ted Gray, Hal Newhouser, Bill Wight and young Bill Hoeft form the nucleus of the Tiger mound corps.

The hurlers weren't the only ones in the news.

Cardinal shortstop Solly Hemus, who batted .268 and hit 15 homers in 1952, may have to hustle to keep his job. Manager Eddie Stanky indicated.

"Only Red Schoendienst second baseman is sure of an infield spot," Stanky said. He named Walt Lammers, up from Columbus, as possible competition for Hemus.

The first training casualty was reported at the Boston Red Sox Sarasota base. Outfielder Gene Stephens sprained his left ankle.

Rice Finally Signs Cardinal Contract

ST. LOUIS—(AP)—Del Rice of the St. Louis Cardinals, described by Manager Eddie Stanky as the National League's best defensive catcher, finally has signed his 1953 contract and will fly to the St. Petersburg, Fla., training base Sunday.

After a brief conference Thursday with owner Fred Saigh, Rice said he was given "pretty much what I wanted." He was believed to have signed for between $16,000 and $18,000, compared to a reported $15,000 salary last year.

Kramer defeated Sedgeman, 6-3, 8-6, before 3,400 fans here Thursday night to knot the series.

Pancho Segura defeated Ken McGregor, the other Aussie, 6-4, 7-5. This gave the Ecuadorian 25 victories to McGregor's eight.

The Australians won the doubles match, 6-4, 6-4.

Prep Star Signs

CHICAGO —(AP)— Shortstop Joe Borzellino of Reading, a member of the Pennsylvania state high school championship baseball team, has signed with Wisconsin Rapids, a Chicago White Sox affiliate.

The 160-pound Borzellino also played four seasons of Junior American Legion ball. He hit as high as .428 with the legion team and never was below .340.

Mt. Morris Officials See Hope for Retaining Bus Line

Passengers Increasing During Test

MT. MORRIS — A steady increase is shown in the number of passengers carried by a bus operating daily between here and Oregon in a 30-day experimental operation, a village spokesman said today.

The experiment has been ordered by the Illinois Commerce commission and the records based on its result will determine whether the two communities will continue to be provided bus service by American Buslines, Inc.

The month-long experiment began Feb. 3. With more than two weeks left, village authorities have expressed belief that a good chance exists for the ICC to deny a petition by the bus company to abandon Mt. Morris-Oregon service.

An ICC ruling on the petition is expected at a hearing it will hold March 11, when the results of the present experiment will be introduced as evidence.

The petition seeking abandonment of the service was filed late last year with the ICC. In it, the bus company charged that it has been losing money on its service between Mt. Morris and Oregon. Mt. Morris officials disputed the petition, declaring that if the bus firm operated the service properly it would be supported.

Five round trips between the two communities are being made daily except Sundays and holidays in the current test.

Mt. Morris GI Rescues Body as Reds Hold Fire

MT. MORRIS—Pfc. Ronald F. Fulton, 21, Mt. Morris, was one of six soldiers who invaded no-man's land within range of Chinese communist guns in Korea recently to retrieve the body of a dead sergeant, according to a story by John J. Casserly, International News Service correspondent.

Fulton, a member of the Rockford national guard unit called to active duty Feb. 15, 1951, and his five companions pulled the sergeant's body from a barbed-wire entanglement and brought it back to United Nations lines without being fired upon.

They discovered that the Chinese wanted them to recover the body. The dead sergeant's uniform pockets were loaded with propaganda leaflets and crude propaganda messages addressed to the sergeant's comrades and to his wife.

Fulton, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Fulton, who formerly lived near Mt. Morris and in Rockford, is married to the former Shirley Spickler, of rural Mt. Morris. He was employed by Kable Brothers Printing company for four years prior to being called to active duty with the 44th division.

Rochelle Charts Future of City for Next Fifty Years

ROCHELLE — Plans for future development of Rochelle over a period up to 50 years were presented by the Kincaid Planning Engineers of Chicago at a public meeting Wednesday night in Flagg Township library.

Everett Kincaid, who addressed a group of more than 80 persons, recommended that U. S. alternate highway 30 traffic now routed through Rochelle's business district be rerouted to a new street at the east side of the city extending through farm land.

Suggest Underpasses

An underpass for the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad as well as the Chicago, North Western tracks when N. 2nd st. is extended south at Cherry av., also was suggested.

Other recommendations by the Chicago firm included an overpass to eliminate the 7th st. and Illinois highway 51 traffic between Lincoln av. and 1st av. and extension of 14th st. under the Chicago, North Western railroad crossing.

Ask New School Site

Future plans also call for a new school site in the northeast section of the city to be developed as a residential district, re-location of the city hall and city business offices to property now used as a city parking area.

Mayor Leo Ripp presided over Wednesday night's meeting. Suggestions of the Chicago firm will next be presented to the city planning commission of which Vincent Carney is chairman.

Eldena 4-H Club Plans Family Meeting To Be Held March 12

ELDENA—The February meeting of the Eldena Wonder Workers 4-H club was held recently at the home of Edwin North. The president called to attention the officer training school, held on Feb. 16, and the tractor maintenance school to be held March 18, 19 and 21.

Orders were taken for 4-H club T-shirts.

The club made plans for family night to be held at the Evergreen school March 12. Ronnie Toot and Wayne Jaquet, Don Koch and Delmar Kentner are to give demonstrations as teams, and Charles Pitzer and David Kentner are to give talks.

A committee was appointed to make plans for a box social and program. Those that were appointed to the committee were David Gussee, David Kentner, Ronnie Toot and Edwin North.

This meeting concerned record books, and all books were brought up to date. It was asked that all members bring their record books to every meeting so that all questions may be answered as they arise.

The county membership drive was announced and discussed. The club now has 25 members after four new ones joined. They are Anne Shippert, William Phelps, and Larry Baker.

After the meeting was adjourned, there was square dancing and refreshments served by Mrs. North.

The Dixon High school G. A. A. girls who have been doing quite a bit of bowling after school at the Recreation this season, finished 9th in the State G. A. A. telegraphic bowling tournament held recently. Ken's pleasant little counter girl, Shirley Tucker, finished fourth among all the state entrants. Shirley had 161, not too far behind the 482 first place score, rolled by a girl from Maywood. We believe this is the first year Dixon has participated in this tourney, and to say they made a fine showing is putting it mild . . . Don Smith was three pins off three alike last night with 160, 157, 160 . . . Orville Hoyle had 23 pins between his games of 165, 188, 211 . . . And speaking of Orville, he said we'd be welcome for breakfast some morning to sample his sausage and hotcakes, but when we said we'd drop out some morning about 5 o'clock, he withdrew his offer in a hurry. And we always thought farmers got up so early . . . Peanie Bruce and Jim Chasm were nearly roll alikes last night, Peanie having 130, 132, 154 for 416 and Jim reaching the same total with 131, 133, 152 . . . Peanie also picked up the 6-7-10 split, and a few frames later his teammate Al Thompson, probably inspired by his leadoff man's performance converted the same split, which very seldom happens on the same team in one game . . . Spot Dunbar was four pins off a trio with 145, 149, 149 . . . While George Lindquist is taking in the Ready Mix convention, his Ready Mix team also had a little get together, with only 18 pins separating their totals Pete Provant having 118, George Anderson 121, Bill Nordstrom 121, George Carlson 428 and Bob O'Bryant 436 . . . J. Schryver started with 132, 132 but jumped to 170 in his finale . . . Clyde Taylor took advantage of Chet Goral's absence on Goral Bros., to be high for the team, his 188 being 12 pins better than anchorman Art Carlson's 426 as runnerup . . . Harry Wienman started with 131, 131 but jumped to 167 in his last set . . . Fred Page had two 173s but ended with 160 . . . The Landmark keglers are usually proud to put their names down in front of their scores, but yesterday with 196 for high they omitted their last names. We can't say we blame them too much and the only ones were sure of are Art Dewey with 185 and Ned Sack with 167. We only wish they'd bowl that way when they roll against us . . . George Scott started with 191 and then had two alike with 162, 162
